DATA ANALYSIS

This database contains information on tennis matches in a period from 2000 to 2016.

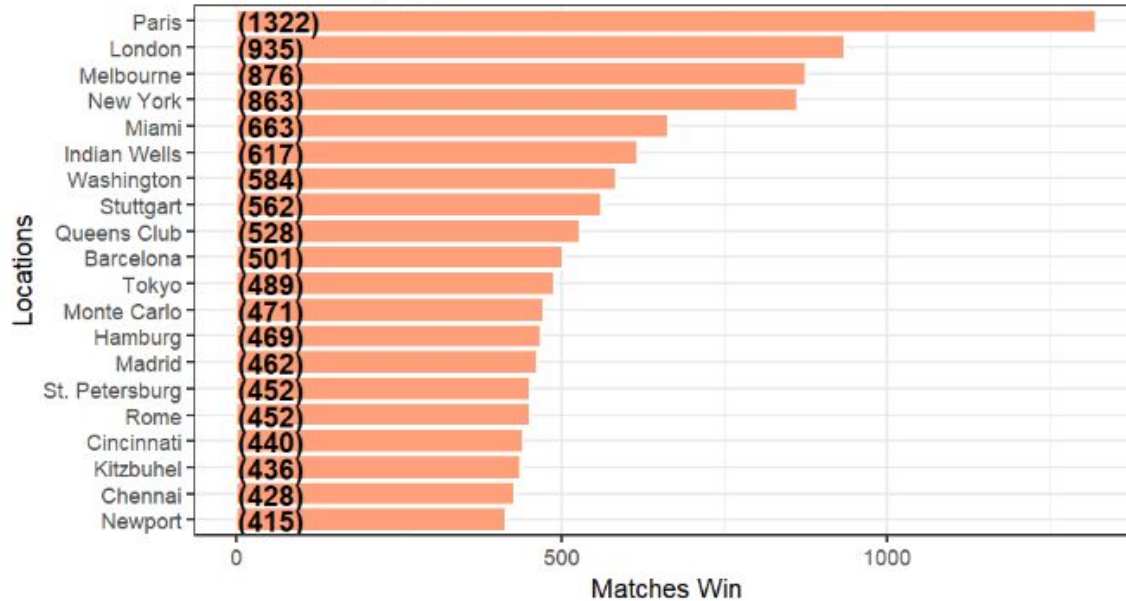

On this occasion, I will analyze the behavior of the players in which I will determine: The cities played, the players, the field conditions, and the years played.

In addition to that, the iGaming sports betting site will also be added with the predictions they had before the matches, to determine which is the best site to go to bet.

THE SURFACE

Now let's see if the type of field affects the performance of the players, to have an understanding of the field circumstances.

According to the heat map, Federer and Nadal have similar competition on the "Grass" and "Clays" fields, finding significant competitiveness between both players.

However, the circumstance of the surface is not something that determines whether the player will win the game.

THE ODDS BETTING SITE

WHERE IS THE BEST
BETTING SITE?

BUSINESS INSIGHTS

Now we will talk about the I-gaming sports bet site and how they have behaved over time, to know which one is best for me to invest and bet on.

I'm sure Federer will win me a couple of bucks! But let's see which agency tends to have a better prediction of games won and lost.

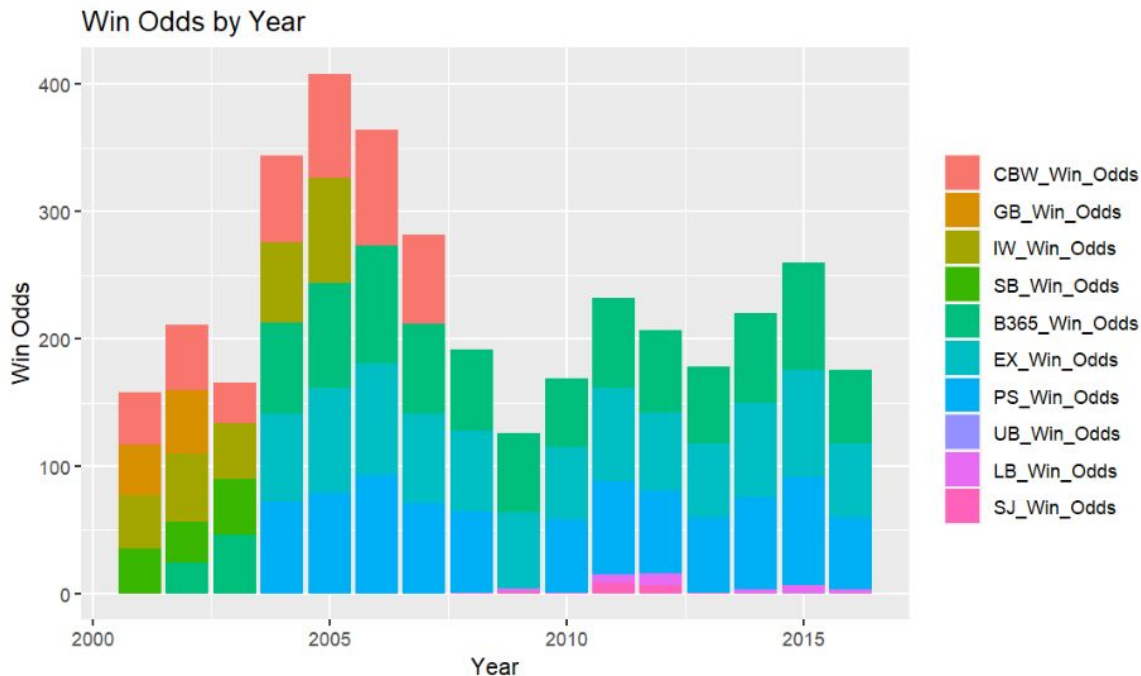

First, let me create a data frame for this analysis.

THE ODDS WINNERS

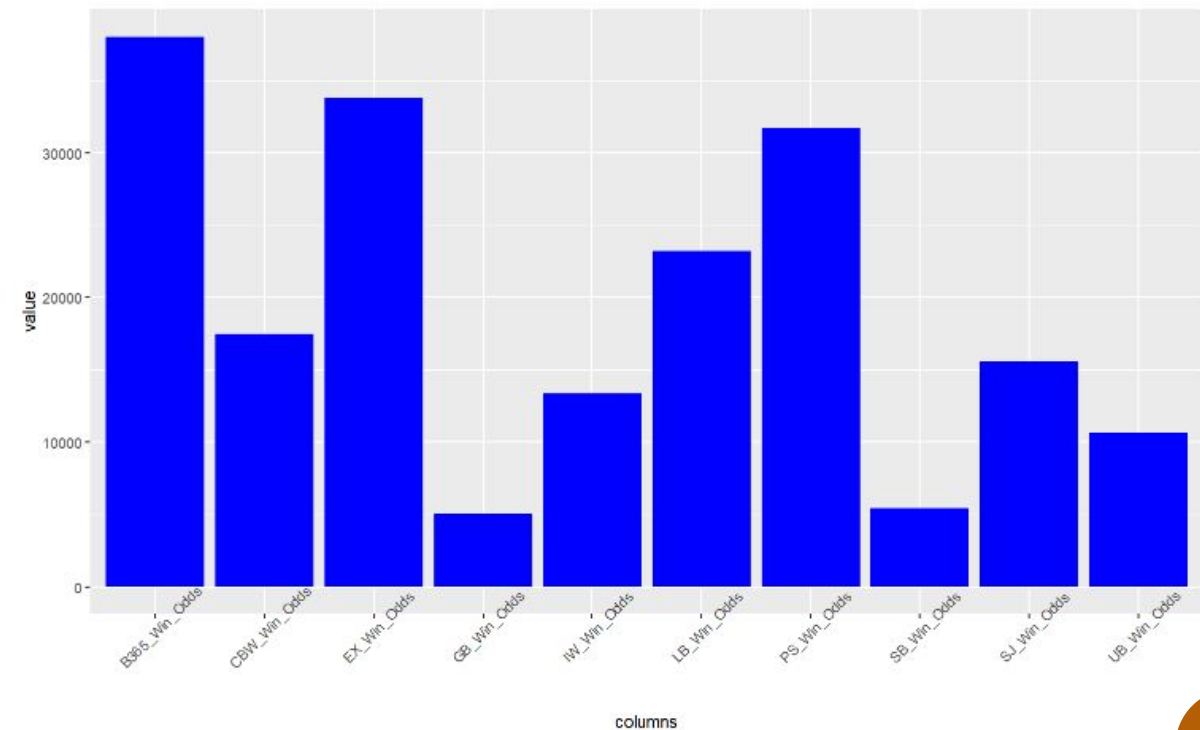

According to the analysis, between 2000 and 20016, the first agency began betting in 2002.

We can see a clear competition between the agencies, and not so much in others...

In a moment, we will do a more detailed analysis to see in which one should I bet?
